September 2025

Why is this work continuing despite the challenges?

We are looking ahead with gratitude and in the belief that we must continue to offer hope to those who are hurting, in a way they most need.

GOOD NEWS...

We write as the 200 children return to our school after a break. There are over 1 million children in the slums provided with less than 10 government schools, which demand fees, impossible to find for most families who on average cannot earn more than £1 per day even, if they have work.

GOOD NEWS...

You are saving children from sex trafficking and violent gang warfare on the streets

You are providing education for children who would otherwise have none

You are showing care and compassion

GOOD NEWS...

You are feeding the hungry ... widows, ex drug addicts, HIV and AIDS victims and their families

GOOD NEWS...

You are helping ex drug addicts rehabilitate despite the ever increasing work shortage

Ugandan by birth, with a tragic background and no family, Yohanna is one of the addicts Ken has been mentoring. He is now one of the youths who came to the church where he is now leading worship as a gifted singer with a passion for the Bible.

GOOD NEWS...

You are meeting the needs of those in debt who live in the dangerous alleyways and sharing with disadvantaged youngsters and their families

GOOD NEWS...

Magdalene has 4 children and in a very unstable relationship. The school has accepted her children though she is unable to pay even meagre fees. She comes to church and is learning about her value, abandoning her previous life as a prostitute. At present she has no permanent home owing to debt.

Psalm 82:3

Defend the defenceless, the fatherless and the forgotten, the disenfranchised and the destitute.

We are thankful .....

In a season of lack, there is still a little provision for the needs, for the committed teachers and Ken our pastor, food for children in school and for distribution to the starving. We should love to provide more for our faithful workers.

We should love to find more possibilities of employment and total healing of recovering addicts. Many have children and regret they can't provide.

Many in this corner of the slums are wanting to attend the school, even muslims, a little suspicious of a Christian school, in their poverty, are grateful for the educational provision and the care provided for their children.

We are saddened that leaders in the Kenyan government have no mercy on these slum children and the poor in general but corruptly line their own affluent pockets with billions. However we pray that will change though protests go unheeded and often police are violent. Meanwhile we continue to show compassion to the needy.
